

INDEX

Volume 69
September 1997 - May 1998

Titles

- An alternative repertory: some friends help us fill in the gaps in the annual play survey ..... November
- Are you listening to me?, by Bruce Miller ..... March
- The audition: some tips for making the cut ..... December
- Basic bags: three costume purse designs you can make out of sows' ears, by Howard Vincent Kurtz ..... November
- Be prepared: from dental emergencies to power outages, the stage manager has something for everything (book excerpt), by Lawrence Stern ..... May
- The best of all possible worlds: another Voltairean plot twist for Candide's Jason Daniele, by Tony Vellela ..... September
- The Burning Moth* (play), by Warren Heiti ..... October
- Choices: liberal arts or professional training?
It's your call ..... December
- Directing: what you need to know your first time, by Bruce Miller ..... October
- The director in rehearsal: the brain behind the hidden hand, by Bruce Miller ..... November
- Don't blink or you'll miss me: the secret life of a film extra, by Joëlle Anthony ..... January
- Dreaming: a spear-carrier's secret ambition, by Julie York ..... November
- Family album: a gallery of the famous and the dysfunctional, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... May
- Fishin'* (play), by Mitch Hogue ..... November
- Floozie for a day: our assistant editor tries 'atmo' acting for the first—and last—time, by Julie York ..... January
- The focative case: can we say that?, by Don Corathers ..... March
- Freakin' out: John Leguizamo as himself and a few dozen other characters, by Tony Vellela ..... April
- Generation* (play), by Eliot Schreier ..... October
- Giving something back: Rent's Anthony Rapp, by James Palmarini ..... November
- Goodbye, yellow brick road: Jessica Grove's whirlwind adventure in Oz, by Julie York ..... October
- Good reading: New York's premier theatre bookstores, by Dorothy Chansky ..... March
- Health Class* (play), by David S. Craig and Robert Morgan ..... March
- I'm on the corner: David Mamet on what an actor needs (book excerpt) ..... January
- It's only a paper moon: budget-friendly architectural details, by Ernest Badgett ..... March
- Kids these days: at the Humana Festival in Louisville, playwrights are fretting about the next generation, by Don Corathers ..... May
- The League of Semi-Super Heroes* (play), by Val Smith and Michael Bigelow Dixon ..... September
- Living large: there's more to high comedy than getting the accent right (book reviews) ..... September
- Long-distance runners: a lineup of writers with staying power, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... March
- Making and hanging a muslin drop, by Steve Nelson ..... September
- Making objects live: artists push the creative envelope at the National Puppetry Conference, by Ezra Goldstein ..... September
- Miss Tanner Speaks Gently to Those Who Remain* (monologue), by Will Eno ..... May
- A modest proposal: learn about the world, and then learn about acting, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... November
- A new direction: Scott Elliott has made his reputation by bucking convention, by Tony Vellela ..... May
- A new miracle every night: actor Patrick Stewart, by Daniel Zwerdling ..... March
- The new song and dance: three musicals, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... April
- New Voices, before and after: the author revisits an ambitious outreach program in Pennsylvania, by Kasandra Dalton McNeil, with photographs by Mark Garvin ..... April
- No faking: a viewer rediscovers the meaning of 'live' theatre, by Prince Gomolivas ..... March
- One lap around the canon: the New York Shakespeare Festival completes Joseph Papp's marathon, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... September
- The play survey ..... October
- Power and poetry: playwright Naomi Wallace's challenge to mainstream theatre, by James Palmarini ..... May
- The portfolio: make it your most valuable tool ..... December
- Reclaimed* (play), by Judy GeBauer ..... January
- Ralph and Sylvie* (play), by Jessica Lacher ..... October
- The real deal: some college reps answer the questions that students are afraid to ask ..... December
- Seeing Ibsen with new eyes: a director goes to Norway in search of the playwright, and finds a romantic character, by Tony Vellela ..... September
- Seeing rhythm: choreographer Susan Stroman, by Tony Vellela ..... January
- The Separation* (play), by Sierra Scott ..... October
- Setting the stage: prop collector Doris Jaffee and some of her favorite things, by Sharon Hazard ..... January
- Star Search: $10 million talent show: too good to be true?, by Julie York ..... January
- Taste and paradox: Lloyd Richards on the new play in the marketplace (speech) ..... April
- Thespian Nation: photographs from the 1997 Thespian Festival, by R. Bruhn and Don Corathers ..... October
- Thespian Playworks: this year's harvest of new plays from our student writing program ..... October
- Thinking theatrically: the playwright's first task is to dream, by Michael Wright ..... May
- This moment: if you miss it, it's gone, by Ezra Goldstein ..... October
- Unbind my heart: a playwright's production journal, by Ezra Goldstein ..... May
- The uses of history: as the millenium looms, theatre looks to the past, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... January
- W.A. (play), by Tom Lavagnino ..... April
- What are you going to do? Finding and playing the action, by Bruce Miller ..... September
- What's in a name? That which we call puke we might call shagworp, if not for the Bard of Avon, by Don Corathers ..... May
- Wish I was here: a young Ohio writer gets her first taste of the Big

INDEX

Volume 69
September 1997 - May 1998

Titles

- An alternative repertory: some friends help us fill in the gaps in the annual play survey ..... November
- Are you listening to me?, by Bruce Miller ..... March
- The audition: some tips for making the cut ..... December
- Basic bags: three costume purse designs you can make out of sows' ears, by Howard Vincent Kurtz ..... November
- Be prepared: from dental emergencies to power outages, the stage manager has something for everything (book excerpt), by Lawrence Stern ..... May
- The best of all possible worlds: another Voltairean plot twist for Candide's Jason Daniele, by Tony Vellela ..... September
- The Burning Moth* (play), by Warren Heiti ..... October
- Choices: liberal arts or professional training? ..... December
- It's your call ..... December
- Directing: what you need to know your first time, by Bruce Miller ..... October
- The director in rehearsal: the brain behind the hidden hand, by Bruce Miller ..... November
- Don't blink or you'll miss me: the secret life of a film extra, by Joëlle Anthony ..... January
- Dreaming: a spear-carrier's secret ambition, by Julie York ..... November
- Family album: a gallery of the famous and the dysfunctional, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... May
- Fishin'* (play), by Mitch Hogue ..... November
- Floozie for a day: our assistant editor tries 'atmo' acting for the first—and last—time, by Julie York ..... January
- The focative case: can we say that?, by Don Corathers ..... March
- Freakin' out: John Leguizamo as himself and a few dozen other characters, by Tony Vellela ..... April
- Generation* (play), by Eliot Schreier ..... October
- Giving something back: Rent's Anthony Rapp, by James Palmarini ..... November
- Goodbye, yellow brick road: Jessica Grove's whirlwind adventure in Oz, by Julie York ..... October
- Good reading: New York's premier theatre bookstores, by Dorothy Chansky ..... March
- Health Class* (play), by David S. Craig and Robert Morgan ..... March
- I'm on the corner: David Mamet on what an actor needs (book excerpt) ..... January
- It's only a paper moon: budget-friendly architectural details, by Ernest Badgett ..... March
- Kids these days: at the Humana Festival in Louisville, playwrights are fretting about the next generation, by Don Corathers ..... May
- The League of Semi-Super Heroes* (play), by Val Smith and Michael Bigelow Dixon ..... September
- Living large: there's more to high comedy than getting the accent right (book reviews) ..... September
- Long-distance runners: a lineup of writers with staying power, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... March
- Making and hanging a muslin drop, by Steve Nelson ..... September
- Making objects live: artists push the creative envelope at the National Puppetry Conference, by Ezra Goldstein ..... September
- Miss Tanner Speaks Gently to Those Who Remain* (monologue), by Will Eno ..... May
- A modest proposal: learn about the world, and then learn about acting, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... November
- A new direction: Scott Elliott has made his reputation by bucking convention, by Tony Vellela ..... May
- A new miracle every night: actor Patrick Stewart, by Daniel Zwerdling ..... March
- The new song and dance: three musicals, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... April
- New Voices, before and after: the author revisits an ambitious outreach program in Pennsylvania, by Kasandra Dalton McNeil, with photographs by Mark Garvin ..... April
- No faking: a viewer rediscovers the meaning of 'live' theatre, by Prince Gomolivas ..... March
- One lap around the canon: the New York Shakespeare Festival completes Joseph Papp's marathon, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... September
- The play survey ..... October
- Power and poetry: playwright Naomi Wallace's challenge to mainstream theatre, by James Palmarini ..... May
- The portfolio: make it your most valuable tool ..... December
- Reclaimed* (play), by Judy GeBauer ..... January
- Ralph and Sylvie* (play), by Jessica Lacher ..... October
- The real deal: some college reps answer the questions that students are afraid to ask ..... December
- Seeing Ibsen with new eyes: a director goes to Norway in search of the playwright, and finds a romantic character, by Tony Vellela ..... September
- Seeing rhythm: choreographer Susan Stroman, by Tony Vellela ..... January
- The Separation* (play), by Sierra Scott ..... October
- Setting the stage: prop collector Doris Jaffee and some of her favorite things, by Sharon Hazard ..... January
- Star Search: $10 million talent show: too good to be true?, by Julie York ..... January
- Taste and paradox: Lloyd Richards on the new play in the marketplace (speech) ..... April
- Thespian Nation: photographs from the 1997 Thespian Festival, by R. Bruhn and Don Corathers ..... October
- Thespian Playworks: this year's harvest of new plays from our student writing program ..... October
- Thinking theatrically: the playwright's first task is to dream, by Michael Wright ..... May
- This moment: if you miss it, it's gone, by Ezra Goldstein ..... October
- Unbind my heart: a playwright's production journal, by Ezra Goldstein ..... May
- The uses of history: as the millenium looms, theatre looks to the past, by Jeffrey Sweet ..... January
- W.A. (play), by Tom Lavagnino ..... April
- What are you going to do? Finding and playing the action, by Bruce Miller ..... September
- What's in a name? That which we call puke we might call shagworp, if not for the Bard of Avon, by Don Corathers ..... May
- Wish I was here: a young Ohio writer gets her first taste of the Big

Apple, by Alison Stine ..... April Writing it down: three new books on how to make plays, reviewed by Stephen Gregg ..... April
 A youth explosion on Broadway: more kids and teens are attending theatre, by Julie York ..... April

Authors

Anthony, Joëlle: Don't blink or you'll miss me: the secret life of a film extra ..... January Badgett, Ernest: It's only a paper moon: budget-friendly architectural details ..... March Brotons, Toni: review of Smart Actors, Foolish Choices by Katherine Mayfield ..... September
 Bruhn, R.: Thespian Nation: photographs from the 1997 Thespian Festival (with Don Corathers) ..... October Chansky, Dorothy: Good reading: New York's premier theatre bookstores ..... March
 Craig, David S.: Health Class (play, with Robert Morgan) ..... March Corathers, Don:
 The focative case: can we say that? ..... March Kids these days: at the Humana Festival in Louisville, playwrights are fretting about the next generation ..... May Thespian Nation: photographs from the 1997 Thespian Festival (with R. Bruhn) ..... October
 What's in a name? That which we call puke we might call shagworp, if not for the Bard of Avon ..... May Dixon, Michael Bigelow: The League of Semi-Super Heroes (play, with Val Smith) ..... September
 Eno, Will: Miss Tanner Speaks Gently to Those Who Remain
 (monologue) ..... May GeBauer, Judy: Reclaimed (play) ..... January Goldstein, Ezra:
 Making objects live: artists push the creative envelope at the National Puppetry Conference ..... September
 This moment: if you miss it, it's gone ..... October Unbind my heart: a playwright's production journal ..... May Golmolvilas, Prince: No faking: a viewer rediscovers the meaning of 'live' theatre ..... March Gregg, Stephen: Writing it down: reviews of three new books on how to make plays ..... April Hazard, Sharon: Setting the stage: prop collector Doris Jaffee and some of her favorite things ..... January Heiti, Warren: The Burning Moth (play) ..... October
 Hogue, Mitch: Fishin' (play) ..... November Kurtz, Howard Vincent: Basic bags: three costume purse designs you can make out of sows' ears ..... November Lacher, Jessica: Ralph and Sylvie (play) ..... October
 Lavagnino, Tom: W.A. (play) ..... April
 Mamet, David: I'm on the corner (book excerpt) ..... January McNeil, Kasandra Dalton: New Voices, before and after: the author revisits an ambitious outreach program in Pennsylvania ..... April Miller, Bruce:
 Are you listening to me? ..... March Directing: what you need to know your first time ..... October
 The director in rehearsal: the brain behind the hidden hand ..... November
 Living large: there's more to high comedy than getting the accent right (book reviews) ..... September What are you going to do? Finding and playing the action ..... September
 Morgan, Robert: Health Class (play, with David S. Craig) ..... March Nelson, Steve: Making and hanging a muslin drop ..... September

Palmarini, James:
 Giving something back: Rent's Anthony Rapp ..... November Power and poetry: playwright Naomi Wallace's challenge to mainstream theatre ..... May Richards, Lloyd: Taste and paradox: the new play in the marketplace (speech) ..... April
 Schreier, Eliot: Generation (play) ..... October
 Scott, Sierra: The Separation (play) ..... October Smith, Val: The League of Semi-Super Heroes (play, with Michael Bigelow Dixon) ..... September
 Stern, Lawrence: Be prepared: the stage manager has something for everything (book excerpt) ..... May Stine, Alison: Wish I was here: a young Ohio writer gets her first taste of the Big Apple ..... April
 Sweet, Jeffrey:
 Family album: a gallery of the famous and the dysfunctional .. May Long-distance runners: writers with staying power ..... March
 A modest proposal: learn about the world, and then learn about acting ..... November
 The new song and dance: three musicals ..... April One lap around the canon: the New York Shakespeare Festival completes Joseph Papp's marathon ..... September The uses of history: as the millenium looms, theatre looks to the past ..... January Vellela, Tony:
 The best of all possible worlds: another Voltairean plot twist for Candide's Jason Daniele ..... September Freakin' out: John Leguizamo as himself and a few dozen other characters ..... April
 A new direction: Scott Elliott has made his reputation by bucking convention ..... May Seeing Ibsen with new eyes: a director goes to Norway in search of the playwright, and finds a romantic character ..... September Seeing rhythm: choreographer Susan Stroman ..... January
 Wright, Michael:
 Review of Stage Writers Handbook, by Dana Singer ..... April Thinking theatrically: the playwright's first task is to dream .... May York, Julie:
 Dreaming: a spear-carrier's secret ambition ..... November Floozie for a day: our assistant editor tries 'atmo' acting for the first—and last—time ..... January Goodbye, yellow brick road: Jessica Grové's whirlwind adventure in Oz ..... October Star Search: $10 million talent show: too good to be true? ..... January
 A youth explosion on Broadway: more kids and teens are attending theatre, a recent study says ..... April Zwerdling, Daniel: A new miracle every night: actor Patrick Stewart ..... March

Subjects

Acting and directing

Are you listening to me?, by Bruce Miller ..... March Directing: what you need to know your first time, by Bruce Miller ..... October
 The director in rehearsal: the brain behind the hidden hand, by Bruce Miller ..... November
 What are you going to do? Finding and playing the action, by Bruce Miller ..... September

Book reviews

The Playwright's Process: Learning the Craft from Today's Leading Drama-

tists, by Buzz McLaughlin (reviewed by Stephen Gregg) .....	April
The Playwright's Workbook , by Jean-Claude van Itallie (Stephen Gregg) .....	April
Playwriting in Process: Thinking and Working Theatrically , by Michael Wright (Stephen Gregg) .....	April
Smart Actors, Foolish Choices , by Katherine Mayfield (Toni Brotons) .....	September
Stage Writers Handbook , by Dana Singer (Michael Wright) .....	April
Style: Acting in High Comedy , by Maria Aiken, and High Concept—Low Tech , by Barbara Carlisle and Don Drapeau (Bruce Miller) .....	September

College

The audition: some tips for making the cut .....	December
Choices: Liberal arts or professional training? It's your call .....	December
A modest proposal: learn about the world, and then learn about acting, by Jeffrey Sweet .....	November
The portfolio: make it your most valuable tool .....	December
The real deal: some college reps answer the questions that students are afraid to ask .....	December

Directories

1998 College Theatre Directory .....	December
1998 Summer Theatre Directory .....	February

Interviews and profiles

The best of all possible worlds: another Voltairean plot twist for Candide's Jason Daniele, by Tony Vellela .....	September
Freakin' out: John Leguizamo as himself and a few dozen other characters, by Tony Vellela .....	April
Giving something back: Rent's Anthony Rapp, by James Palmarini .....	November
Goodbye, yellow brick road: Jessica Grové's whirlwind adventure in Oz , by Julie York .....	October
A new miracle every night: actor Patrick Stewart, by Daniel Zwerdling .....	March
Power and poetry: playwright Naomi Wallace's challenge to mainstream theatre, by James Palmarini .....	May
A new direction: Scott Elliott has made his reputation by bucking convention, by Tony Vellela .....	May
Seeing rhythm: choreographer Susan Stroman, by Tony Vellela .....	January
Setting the stage: prop collector Doris Jaffee and some of her favorite things, by Sharon Hazard .....	January

Miscellany

An alternative repertory: some friends help us fill in the gaps in the annual play survey .....	November
Don't blink or you'll miss me: the secret life of a film extra, by Joëlle Anthony .....	January
Dreaming: a spear-carrier's secret ambition, by Julie York .....	November
Floozie for a day: our assistant editor tries 'atmo' acting for the first—and last—time, by Julie York .....	January
The focative case: can we say that?, by Don Corathers .....	March
I'm on the corner: David Mamet on what an actor needs (book excerpt) .....	January
No faking: a viewer rediscovers the meaning of 'live' theatre, by Prince Gomolivas .....	March
Taste and paradox: Lloyd Richards on the new play in the marketplace (speech) .....	April

Thinking theatrically: the playwright's first task is to dream, by Michael Wright .....	May
This moment: if you miss it, it's gone, by Ezra Goldstein .....	October
Unbind my heart: a playwright's production journal, by Ezra Goldstein .....	May
What's in a name? That which we call puke we might call shagworp, if not for the Bard of Avon, by Don Corathers .....	May
Wish I was here: a young Ohio writer gets her first taste of the Big Apple, by Alison Stine .....	April

Plays

The Burning Moth , by Warren Heiti .....	October
Fishin' , by Mitch Hogue .....	November
Generation , by Eliot Schreier .....	October
Health Class , by David S. Craig and Robert Morgan .....	March
The League of Semi-Super Heroes , by Val Smith and Michael Bigelow Dixon .....	September
Miss Tanner Speaks Gently to Those Who Remain (monologue), by Will Eno .....	May
Ralph and Sylvie , by Jessica Lacher .....	October
Reclaimed , by Judy GeBauer .....	January
The Separation , by Sierra Scott .....	October
W.A. , by Tom Lavagnino .....	April

Reports

Family album: a gallery of the famous and the dysfunctional, by Jeffrey Sweet .....	May
Good reading: New York's premier theatre bookstores, by Dorothy Chansky .....	March
Kids these days: at the Humana Festival in Louisville, playwrights are fretting about the next generation, by Don Corathers .....	May
Long-distance runners: a lineup of writers with staying power, by Jeffrey Sweet .....	March
Making objects live: artists push the creative envelope at the National Puppetry Conference, by Ezra Goldstein .....	September
One lap around the canon: the New York Shakespeare Festival completes Joseph Papp's marathon, by Jeffrey Sweet .....	September
The new song and dance: three musicals, by Jeffrey Sweet .....	April
New Voices, before and after: the author revisits an ambitious outreach program in Pennsylvania, by Kasandra Dalton McNeil, with photographs by Mark Garvin .....	April
The play survey .....	October
Seeing Ibsen with new eyes: a director goes to Norway in search of the playwright, and finds a romantic character, by Tony Vellela .....	September
Star Search: $10 million talent show: too good to be true?, by Julie York .....	January
Thespian Nation: photographs from the 1997 Thespian Festival, by R. Bruhn and Don Corathers .....	October
The uses of history: as the millenium looms, theatre looks to the past, by Jeffrey Sweet .....	January
A youth explosion on Broadway: more kids and teens are attending theatre, a recent study says, by Julie York .....	April

Tech theatre

Basic bags: three costume purse designs you can make out of sows' ears, by Howard Vincent Kurtz .....	November
Be prepared: the stage manager has something for everything (book excerpt), by Lawrence Stern .....	May
It's only a paper moon: budget-friendly architectural details, by Ernest Badgett .....	March
Making and hanging a muslin drop, by Steve Nelson .....	September

